Picking Berries in the Rain.

Do you remember, Kitty,
The night when I
Of a cool blue heaven, summer
That passed away in vain,
When we, with pails and baskets,
Went over hill and dell,
With John and his umbrella,
Or borrow in the rain?

Oh, how we laughed and talked
As free as were the birds,
Provoked to mirth, otherwise,
By John's quaint words;
And when the rain came pouring,
A torrent from the clouds,
Crouched, 'neath the old umbrella,
We woke the echoes loud!

And when the sun was setting,
And glory lit the hills,
And clouds and mists were fleeing,
We picked the berries still;
And piled them high and higher,
Beneath the golden light,
And watched the twilight armies
Draw up the curtain bright.

And when with berries laden,
We wandered, homeward bound,
We heard in shadowy places
The Katydid's wicked sound;
And saw the dusky fire-flies
Flash in the summer dark,
And talked of Easter's glow-worms,
So like their tiny spark.

Ah, Kitty, blue-eyed Kitty!
That day lies far away,
And much of mirth has left us,
Dear as we may;
But womanhood has brought us
Something better far—
That was the fire-fly's flashes,
This is the glow-worm's star.

I know not in what distant land
Gay Johnny rests his head,
Or if with him as pleasantly
The checkered years have sped;
But, from his proud young manhood,
He has ne'er turned again,
To pick in dreams the berries
Beneath the summer rain!

I watch the golden sunsets,
When mists and clouds depart,
Then memory lifts the pictures
I've treasured in my heart;
And brightest of these pictures,
And one that brings no pain,
Is a gay young girl picking berries
Beneath the summer rain.

War Incidents.

An old lady of Johnstown, Cambria Co., Penn., had an only son, a strapping minor, to whom she was sincerely attached. This lad was induced to join a corps from the mountains, and, hoping to deceive the old lady, he invented some plausible tale, and came away. The love of the mother was, however, too great to be deceived; and after a week had elapsed, the true story was revealed to her. She started upon the railroad with a bundle and a small sum of money, and walked to Harrisburg alone, a distance of more than one hundred and fifty miles. At Harrisburg she took the train, and her money brought her to Downington, where she again resumed her tramp, and turned up, much to the lad's astonishment, at Camp Coleman, near Frankford. There the old lady, utterly wearied out, fell sick: and the men, hearing of the case, made up a collection, and provided her a bed and attendance in the neighborhood. But her strength revived with her anxiety, and she proceeded to the railroad with the boy, and kissed him a good-bye at the cars, with the tears falling over her cheeks.

A soldier of one of the returned companies, encamped in the suburbs of Martinsburg, Virginia, relates the following melting incidents:

Shortly after the arrival of the regiment, the squad messing in a certain tent near a dwelling, were listeners to most beautiful music. The unknown vocalist sang in tones so soft, so tremulous, and so melodious, that the volunteers strained their ears to drink in every note of the air. In the daytime they went by squads past the dwelling, but saw no soul. Once they pursued a sylph-like figure to the very gate, but alas! she was not the lady sought for. And so they lived on, each night hearing the music repeated; and when it ceased, ambition and worldly interest went out with them, so that their dreams were filled with fancies of the unseen face. One night gathered together, the voice struck up again.

"By Jove!" said one, "this is agonizing. I can't stand it. She must be discovered."

A dozen eager voices took up the remark, and a certain amorous youth was delegated to reconnoiter the place. He crept on tiptoe to the dwelling, leaped the garden pales, and finally, undiscovered, but very pallid and remorseful, gained the casement.

Softly raising his head, he peeped within. The room was full of the music—he seemed to grow blind for the moment. Lo! prone upon the kitchen hearth, sat the mysterious songstress—an ebony-hued negress, scouring the tin kettles!

The soldier's limbs sank beneath him, and the discovered, looking up, said:

"Go 'way, dar, won't ye, or I'll shy de frying pan out o' de winder!"

The soldier left—but not to dream, perchance.

Exciting News from Europe.

Dates are to the 16th August. If the European powers get by the ears they will not have much time to attend to our affairs.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The Austrian Archduke Maximilian, on visiting Southampton relative to the projected Austrian Steamship Company, made a speech, in which he predicted closer sympathies, commercially and politically, between England and Austria.

Mr. Roebuck also made a speech, extolling the constitutional efforts of the Emperor of Austria.

The marriage contract between the Princess Alice and Prince Leopold of Hesse, was signed at Osborne on the 14th inst.

The London Times in its city article again examines on the financial difficulties accumulating against the American Government, and says that the most earnest wish of the friends of America must be that the difficulties thus in sight may accumulate with sufficient rapidity to bring the North and the South to reason.

FRANCE.—There was a vague report of a growing coolness between France and Austria, bearing an ominous resemblance to that which preceded the late war. Prince Metternich had taken leave of the Emperor, and the latter had gone to the Chalons Camp. Gen. Fanti had also left Paris and was en route to the Chalons Camp.

The Moniteur officially confirms the appointment of M. Benedetti as Minister to Italy, and announces other minor appointments.

POLAND.—An important popular demonstration occurred at Lublin on the 12th inst. The Military Commander, however, by his energetic action, suppressed a conflict without any more serious consequences than that a certain number of persons were wounded.

The Oregon City Argus says that Portland most nobly responded to the call of the chairman of the Executive Committee of the Clackamas Agricultural Society, for funds to aid in the improvement of the State Fair Grounds.

The M. E. Church in Oregon this year, number 1,233 members; Sunday school scholars, 1679.

The Oregon City Argus says, that "the track at the State Fair Grounds will be put in fine order. The rains have come just in time, and the best horses of the State will be here. It will do no good now to boast that such and such horses are the best trotters in the State. We shall see with our own eyes, and form our own opinions."

Upwards of $1 00 have been raised in San Francisco for the relief of Parson Brownlow.

The official report of Gen. Lyon's battle at Wilson's creek, shows a loss of 223 killed; 721 wounded; 284 missing—total, 1231.—The missing are supposed to have been made prisoners. The loss of 944 men in killed and wounded, from a force of 5,800 men, shows the desperate character of the contest.

There are 64 Union men elected to the Legislature of California, out of 80 members.

The Advertiser copies a protest signed by J. D. Bright and some others, against the passage of an act to define and punish conspiracies. The same J. D. Bright in short time since, gave a letter of introduction to Jeff. Davis, to a man who had made some improvements in army rifles.

Capture of the Forts at the Hatteras Inlet

We have the details of the expedition which resulted in the capture of the Forts at Hatteras Inlet. The fleet arrived off the Forts on Wednesday 28th August. Nine hundred and nineteen men, under command of Col. Max Weber, of the 20th New York regiment, were landed, and drawn up in a line on the beach. The wind rose and it was found impossible to land more troops. They then proceeded up the beach, found that Fort Clark had been evacuated, but were compelled to return from it, owing to the shells of the fleet falling therein—marched back and bivouacked for the night. Early in the morning they returned and the fleet commenced bombarding the second fort, which soon afterwards displayed the white flag. The fort was entered by our troops, and the officers were conducted to the tent of Com Barron, who commanded the rebel force. The Commodore placed in the hand of Lieutenant Wiegel the following proposition, which was immediately carried to Gen Butler:

MEMORANDUM.—Flag officer Samuel Barron C. S. A., offers to surrender Fort Hatteras with all the arms and munitions of war, the officers to be allowed to go with side arms and men without arms to retire.

SAMUEL BARRON,
Commanding naval defences of Virginia and North Carolina, Fort Hatteras.

The following reply was dispatched by Gen Butler, Flag Officer Stringham, Lieut Crosby, U S N., and Lieutenant Wiegel:

MEMORANDUM.—General B F Butler, Major-General commanding U S A, in reply to the communication of Samuel Barron, commanding the forces at Fort Hatteras:

"Cannot accept of the proposed terms. The terms offered are these—full capitulation, the officers and men to be treated as prisoners of war. No other terms admissible. Commanding officers to meet on board the flag ship Minnesota to arrange details."

The terms were accepted, and Com Barron proceeded to the flag-ship to arrange details; after which the prisoners were placed on the Minnesota, and the Stars and Stripes hoisted on the Forts.

Fort Hatteras mounted ten guns and had four unmounted; also, one large ten-inch Columbiad ready for mounting. The position of the fort is an exceedingly strong one, nearly surrounded by water, and only to be approached by a march of five hundred yards circuitously over a long neck of sand, within a half musket range, and over a causeway only a few feet in width, which was commanded by two-pounders loaded with grape and canister. Fort Clark, which is about seven hundred yards northerly, is a square redoubt, mounting five guns and two six-pounders. The enemy had spiked these guns, but in a very ineffectual manner, upon abandoning the Fort.

Barron delivered his sword to Commodore Stringham, and the others officers theirs to Gen Butler. 1,000 stand of arms, 25 cannon, 500 knapsacks, and a large quantity of munitions were captured, and 715 prisoners. No one injured on the American side. The rebels had nine killed and twenty five wounded. Four hundred rebels had reinforced the forts on the night previous to the attack. On Thursday, 29th, a steamer with one thousand rebels approached, but was kept away by our forces in Fort Clark. Col. Max Weber was placed in command of Fort Hatteras, and Col Hawkins in Fort Clark. A portion of the fleet remain there. Several important books and papers were captured, disclosing the plans of the rebels.

Among the letters and papers captured was one from the late American Consul at Rio Janeiro, Robert C Schott, giving a list of all the vessels leaving or to leave that port during the month, with a full description of their cargoes, &c. By this the rebel privateers knew when and where to look, and if named in the list, the vessels were captured.

Gen. Butler, on consultation with flag-officer Stringham, determined to leave troops and hold the Forts, because of the strength of the fortifications and their importance—because if again in possession of the enemy, with sufficient armament, of the difficulty of recapturing them.

The importance of the point cannot be overrated—from there the whole coast of Virginia and North Carolina, to Norfolk to Cape Lookout, is within our reach by light draught vessels, which cannot possibly live at sea during the winter months. From it offensive operations may be made upon the whole coast of North Carolina to Bogue Inlet, extending many miles inland to Washington, Newburn and Beaufort. In the language of the chief engineer of the rebels, in an official report "It is the key of the Albermarle. In my judgment, it is a station second only in importance to Fortress Monroe." On this coast is a depot for coaling and supplies for the blockading squadron. It is invaluable as a harbor for our coasting trade, or info from the winter storms, or from pirates. It is of first importance. By holding it, the Hatteras light may again send forth a cheering ray to the storm-beaten mariner.

The news of the victory caused much joy at Washington, and the result of the expedition is said to be our possession of the entire North Carolina coast. This expedition was planned by experienced officers in connection with the Navy Department before the meeting of the last Congress, but had been delayed until the 26th of August.

Details of Eastern News.

THE REBELS IN SOUTH-WESTERN MISSOURI.—Every outrage that human depravity can invent is very freely perpetrated by them. Among the latest was an attempt made to fire a passenger train between St Louis and Rolla. The train had reached a point eight miles from that city, and two miles beyond Dillon, when a loud explosion was heard, which was supposed by the passengers to be the discharge of a cannon by some of the Secessionists. It was ascertained that a keg of powder had exploded just beneath the engine. The dirt was thrown up in clouds, and covered the floor of the engine, and the roof exhibits the effects of the pebbles thrown against it. The engineer was thrown off his seat. The powder was contained in a common nail keg, buried between the rails, and it is supposed that a fuse extended to it from the track. The escape of the passengers from the effects of the explosion is considered providential, as the dastardly scoundrels also perpetrated the act intended to effect a wholesale slaughter of all on board. The train moved back to the scene of the explosion, when it was ascertained from a woman that eight men were seen by her on the spot a half hour or so previous. The rebels could be heard talking by some of the passengers, in the bushes, after the train started on, when was seen to come out of his hiding place and take a survey of his nefarious work.

NORTH MISSOURI.—In this part of the State affairs have become wonderfully quiet, under the administration of Gen. Pope. The last outrage occurring was the firing into a train of cars, and the course pursued by the General in levying tribute upon the county until the offenders were caught, is a very significant effect, and has prevented the recurrence of such action. With all their sensitive feelings against "invaders," the pocket is a sore spot on the Secessionists.

PILLOW'S "CAN."—A correspondent writing from thence to St Louis, says: "The idea is general in the camp that St Louis will be at a very early day in their hands. This is what keeps the troops together. Did they believe that St. Louis would not, or could not, be in their possession before the lapse of many days, they would fall asunder like leaves from a tree in autumn. They are poorly fed, poorly clothed, and poorly paid. This does not apply so fully to the men from Alabama and Tennessee as to the others. The force was twenty thousand under Pillow, and eight thousand at Benton under Thompson, and eight hundred at Charleston under Hunter. Every moveable, eatable, or portable thing was being secured unceremoniously by the rebels wherever found."

Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, Aug 31.—Richard P Freeman was arrested yesterday, on his way to Keene, N H, to purchase shoe and pegging machinery for Georgia, and was taken to Fort Lafayette by order of the Secretary of State.

The remains of Gen Lyon arrived at three o'clock this afternoon, and were escorted by a guard of honor to the City Hall, where they will lay in state, till Monday afternoon, when they will be conveyed to Connecticut.

$40,000 belonging to the rebels was seized yesterday in the Park Bank by Marshal Murray.

A special dispatch from Washington to the Post says all is quiet on the Potomac to-day. The Unionists, near Munson's Hill, are leaving rapidly. The War Department is actively filling vacancies in the Volunteer forces, by appointing officers without regard to regular grades.

D. M. Stone, late Commercial editor, and W. C. Prime, having succeeded to the interests of Gerrard Hallock in the Journal of Commerce, will, in connection with Messrs W Halleck and W A Hale, hereafter conduct the paper. The Government has removed the interdiction against the circulation of the Journal of Commerce over the mail and express routes of the United States.

The Gold Fields of Oregon and Washington.

The Sacramento Union has a reliable and intelligent correspondent in the gold regions, who thus writes from "Elk City, Bitter Root Valley, Aug. 27th.

"Elk City is in Elk Valley, a section of Bitter Root Valley, 60 miles in a south-easterly direction from the Hell Gate ferry on the Clearwater river. It rises at the foot of the mountain slope on which the town is being built. Forests of pine stretch back of it, and on each hand before it lies the valley on whose side silent broom browse hundreds of cattle and horses. The city, at present, consists of one street, on which are about twenty finished buildings—mostly stores, saloons, etc. The houses are about of logs, and are in course of being roofed as fast as practicable, of long boards of tamarack ("tamarisk") cut in the mountains, and packed in on Indian horses about eight miles. It is just three weeks since the first log of the first building was laid down. The diggings on and about the south fork of Clear Water have been discovered about ten weeks. Those in this immediate vicinity have been brought to light within the last four to six weeks. All that have opened out their claims thus far, in Butler creek, American river, Red river, or the various gulches, are well satisfied—the pay ranging all the way up from wages, that is, five dollars a day to twenty and twenty-five, and still higher pay. The gold is pronounced by many to be similar to Salmon river gold. It has a beautiful appearance, is of medium bulk, neither coarse nor fine. A man cannot pan out any where without finding from the color a good prospect. The difficulty at present is that it is too late to open out claims with any probability of their being worked this season. Hence many have returned to Oregon and California with intent to come back at the earliest practicable next season. That this gold region is certain. That gold has been found within the limits of every extensive scope of country is also certain. The vast area embraced within the bounds of the Rocky and Wind River chains on the east—the great basin on the south drained by the Snake river and its tributaries, from the head waters in the Rocky Mountains to its junction with the Columbia—the sweep of country on the north drained by the Clark's Fork, from its head waters in the Rocky Chain to its confluence with and thenceforward the valley drained by the Columbia itself—together with the whole slope watered from the Cascade Range on the west, are found to them more or less with the precious metal. Not only is the decrease, but it is thus far, found to be very equally distributed. The mineral is imbedded in a high gravel, at least it is so in the river beds, and in the gulches—Quartz in all its varieties of interfusture with talc, feldspar, lime, etc., as well as clay slate, abound on every hand. Doubtless rich gold-bearing quartz ledges are yet to be revealed by searching gaze of earnest prospectors. The quantity and quality of the mineral found, however, already discovered, render it indisputable that these mines are not only representative to these now here, but extend away to make this to be a populous and permanent mining region.

"As to the nature of the climate, etc. As indicated by the name of the valley, the elk abound here; also, the moose deer, the black and brown bear, etc. All the indications go to show that the winters are long and severe. For instance, you find the grass, even now at the latter end of August comparatively green, and on the mountains decidedly so. Proving that the snowy influences have not long departed. The Indians, however, say that this has been an unusually severe season. From all I can gather on this head the conclusion arrived at is that the miners' working season in the rivers is from about the middle of June to the middle or end of November. Some feel confident, from Indian talk that the gulch claims will be workable in March. A petty settlement just and considerable mining law was passed at a large miners' meeting held in the city last week whereby the shortness of the season is in a great measure regulated. By such means all will be able to locate a river, a hill or creek claim together with a gulch claim that is he may be after the claims of different denominations when the one is unworkable the other comes in, gives continual labor, and thus secures a reasonable long working season. As intimated above, wages of hands are five dollars a day without, and four dollars all by with board. So short a time, however, has elapsed since the discovery of these mines that comparatively few have as yet fully opened and worked. The number of hands heretofore finding employment is but very large. Still the number of men working in this vicinity must be in all from eight hundred to one thousand. Provisions, clothing, tools, etc., are of course tolerably high. Flour twenty cents per pound, bacon forty-five cents, sugar forty cents, coffee fifty cents, potatoes and onions, thirty cents—beef, of which there is plenty in the valley, from ten to fifteen, picks and shovels, five dollars each, sluice forks, eight dollars. From these instances learn as to all.

"What I have said is based on facts as they have come under my observation, and upon the most reliable information."

We have thus presented the opinion of a Californian on the value of the Oregon and Washington mines. Who doubts that there will be a general stampede to them from California, the coming year?

Rev. J. S. Hays, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, in Nashville, was required to pray for the success of the Secessionists. He would not do that, and departed for the North.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

NATIONAL FAST-DAY.—We have seen a list signed by the prominent merchants of this city, declaring themselves to keep their stores closed on Thursday next.

ANOTHER RUNAWAY.—We have to record almost daily a runaway. Yesterday a two horse team ran up first street, breaking the wagon all to pieces. It would be well to have an ordinance compelling teamsters to tie their horses when they leave them.

Gray uniforms are the rebels color. So it should not be adopted by our troops.

The Inquisitor, a treasonable journal at Westchester, Pa., was cleaned out, recently, by a party unknown, who emptied the whole concern from an upper window.

We received on Saturday by mail from Olympia, a letter, in the extraordinary short time of seven days after its date.

The telegraph line has been so extended that dispatches are received from Salt Lake City of Sacramento, in two days.

A Yankee, who escaped from the "sacred soil," says that "there are two well drilled companies of negroes, in Richmond."

ANOTHER MAY.—Captain Rufus Ingalls, for several years Quartermaster at Fort Vancouver, W. T., has been appointed one of the aids of General McClellan.

The Methodist, Baptist, and Congregational churches, at Oregon City, unite in religious services on the day appointed for the National Fast.

In Clarke County, "putting out poison to kill a sheep killing dog," is no crime. So spoke the Grand Jury.

The reported murders on Goose Creek, prove to be a hoax—and a very wicked one.

The Advertiser is constantly bringing to notice the stopping of printing presses, with strong aid and comfort to the enemy. The Advertiser is evidently anxious for a famine.

JEFF. DAVIS.—A Louisville paper, of Sept. 14th, has a special dispatch to the N. O. Delta and Richmond, Aug. 27th, says: "Jeff. Davis is so ill that Congress has adjourned to await his convalescence. A bill has passed Congress for the settlement of accounts between the Government and the States. Measures were made toward prosecuting the war."

The evidence thus appears to be certain that on the 27th August, Davis was in a very low state which renders it probable that he may have since died, as stated by telegraph.

Exhibitors and others will please note the change.

☞ Swett's Grape Bitters, or Restorative Wine, manufactured under the supervision of Mrs. A. M. SWETT, the celebrated Clairvoyant Physician, and prepared from roots and herbs of great medicinal virtue, combined with the pure juice of the California Grape—a certain remedy for Liver Complaint, Debility, Biliousness, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Impaired Appetite, Impure Breath, &c., and all diseases requiring a powerful Liver Invigorator and Tonic. Warranted the best remedy ever invented for diseases peculiar to females, such as Leucorrhœa, or Whites, Weakness, &c. Sold by all Druggists, and by DANIEL SWETT, Proprietor, 635 California street, San Francisco. aug2d6m

☞ The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example, a shining light among the brightest ophthalmical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary M. D. and Surgeon degrees. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the leader in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to see him in correspondence, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get the medicines and attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal. june26dawly

Northern Fair of California

The Northern District Agricultural Fair of California, held at Marysville three days commencing on the 10th, has been a great success. The exhibition of horses was large and many of them boasting blood from a noble ancestry. There was quite a number of fine Durham cattle—bulls and cows. Home products, preserves, pickles, jellies, &c, &c, made a fine show. Agricultural products were fine and in great variety—hops, peanuts, sweet potatoes, mammoth squashes, &c. In needle work, the ladies displayed their matchless taste and industry,—embroidery, crochet knitting and netting, rows of quilts, &c. &c. Of fruits, grapes were a leading feature, and these were in perfection, and of numerous varieties—making one's mouth water to read the description in the Marysville Appeal. And there were immense exhibitions of peaches from Brigg's famous orchard—and apples, quinces, plums, apricots, figs, almonds, &c. &c. To a man or Lady of taste the exhibitions at this fair must have been very interesting.

Commercial and Financial.

We have San Francisco trade reports to September 17. Jobbing business was quite brisk in San Francisco. Crushed Sugar was in demand at 14 cents. Isthmus Butter was in demand at 23 cents. Dont the produce was active, but prices low. Wheat was going to Australia and China. We copy a few quotations:

Wheat, $1 75 a $1 50. Flour, Alaska $6 per 200 lbs., Barley, 87½. Oats, $1 a $1 12½. Hay, $10 per ton. Potatoes, $1 to $2 per 100 lbs.
